SERVANTS AGAINST PRIEST.

BIG ROW IN ST. JOSEPH'S CATHOLIC CHURCH IN BRIDGEPORT. The Servants in the Parochial Residence Don't Get Along With a Priest Temporarily Acting as Rector A Row Results and the Priest Is Suspended-Parishioners Angry. BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 28 .- For fifteen years Kate Brady has been housekeeper for the Rev. Father Theodore J. Ariens, the aged astor of St. Joseph's German Catholic Church for twelve years she has had an assistant in Parishioners now assert that Miss Brady interest in the business affairs of the church has been too active. It is further declared that in Miss Fritz the housekeeper had an able and agressive adjutant. Father Ariens is an old an and, the dissatisfied parishioners say, that he has been swayed by his servants. Two months ago, when Father Ariens decided to go to Europe, Father Albert Stroebele, a franciscan father, came from Butler, N. J., to all the pastorate temporarily. He was an inmate of the rectory for some time before Father Ariens sailed for Europe. The domestic mangement of the parochial residence did not suit his ideas. The pastor, it is said, confided to the visiting priest that he had to put up with many things that he did not like; that he lacked assertiveness enough to bring about desired changes. Father Stroebele, or Father Albert, s he is better known, says that the pastor gave him the right to amend the household arrangenents. Thereupon, Father Albert declares the women of the household began a systematic course of persecution. It is said that it was imossible for the new priest to obtain proper food and care of his quarters. It is also said that he was subjected to innumerable petty annoyances. Finally Father Albert appealed, priv stely, to the trustees, Joseph Hee and John Marx. The trustees protested to the women. but matters grew worse instead of better Father Albert no longer went to the rectory fo his meals, but took them outside at his conven-ience. He slept in the sacristy of the church, He issued a written statement of his grievances and a congregational meeting was called to consider the matter. A committee consisting of Mr. Wolff, John Wethstein, Charles Sauer and Carl Diehl was Webstein, Charles Samer and Carl Diehl was appointed to take action. It was decided by the congregational meeting to make a formal demand upon Miss Brady and Miss Fritz to leave. This was done, but they refused, declaring that they were responsible to Father Ariens alone and that they acknowledged no authority on the part of trustees or congregation. One of the trustees went to Sheriff Peter Doolan, Jr., and asked him to evicit the somen from the rectory. Sheriff Doolan interviewed the women and reported to the trustees that there was a decided question as to the legality of afforcible eviction, it not being perfectly clear whether the parish house was maintained by the parish or by Father Ariens as an individual.

By this time Miss Brady sent word to Father ilbert that there was a letter from Bishop telmey awaiting him at the rectory and that the letter contained a statement to the effect and Father Albert was not a qualified priest, had no right to say mass or administer any entre irites, and was forthwith ordered to vacate. The women said they knew these things were in the letter because they had offer letter from the Bishop telling them so. In sent Father Albert to Hartford with his redentials, signed by four or five Bishops, and brought forth mere indignation from the trustees, who wanted to know if the Bishop intended to transact business of St. Joseph's Church through the rectory chambermaids.

After Sheriff Doolan's visit Miss Brady is said to have had a special policeman sleep at the rectory to prevent the execution of ejectment proceedings. Father Albert reported this parishioners that in going into the rectory after something he had left there, he found a policeman asleep on a lounge with a bottle of wine beside him. Yesterday the committee appointed took the matter to Hartford. The members of the committee were told that Bishop Tierney was any of the matter to Hartford. The members of the committee represented that, as Father Albert has been until a greating priests already in the docesse without br

IRENE NOBLE'S TEN-CENT RIDE. it Left Her Stranded and She Fell Asleep or

Irene Noble, the pretty ten-year-old daugh ter of Mrs. Sarah Noble of 50 Pierrepont street, Brooklyn Heights, caused her family much worry and trouble by a fifte n hours' absence from her home. She was found by a large, black dog at 1 o'clock yesterday morning fast asleep under a pavilion near the Catholic Home for Boys at Coney Island. The dog did its best to attract the attention of Policeman Hamilton, who was doing mounted patrol duty, and finally succeeded. Hamilton shook the child sently and asked her name. When she told him he remembered that a general alarm had been sent out for a little girl of her name and an four latter James Munroe, a friend of the Noble family, came and took her home. Irene told her mother that on Friday morning about 10 o'clock she decided to spend 10 cents which she had for a troiley ride. Seeing a Coney island ear and thinking that that would carry her as far as any car would for the money she got on board. She paid her fare and settled down for a good long ride. At Twenty-second street the conductor came around and collected five cents more in accordance with the conductor insisted, and when she reached Coney Island she was penniless. She wandered about and passed the time seeing the strange sights. By dinner time she had become very hungry and at last plucked up courage to tell her plight to several sympathetic looking persons whom she saw. People so to Coney Island, however, to spend money and have it taken from them; not to give it away, as she found. So she tried to forget her hunger, and started wandering around again. When at last she became so hungry and so tired that she could stand it no longer, she crawled under the ravilion where she was found and sank into a sound, welcome sleep.

The family in Pierrepont street found no such relief. All day Friday they waited anxiously, trying in some way to account for her absence. By 11 o'clock at night Mrs. Noble feli sure that her doughter had met with some accident, and as a last resort asked the police to send out a general alarm. about 10 o'clock she decided to spend 10 cents

They were locked in the hospital of the Servia and objected immediately after the key was turned on them. They broke oren the door, and, tempo arily forgetting their declaration about American illiberality, said in a passion that the way of treating deported immigrants aboard a British ship was even worse than the manner of treating inoff in ive political prisoners in America. Then they were permitted to stay out on deck until the Servia sailed.

They said that the Americans were probagilsh and that they had better haul down the American flag and put up the English flag in its place.

NOTES OF LEGAL SYENTS.

The Court of Appeals concluded its summe session at Saratoga on Friday afternoon and adjourned to reconvene at Albany on Oct. 1. It did not dealer the It did not decide the case of the People on the relation of Coffey against the Democratic General Committee of Kings county, which involves the power of a political committee under the Primary Election law to expel a member for a cause other than the non-payment of dues. Leave was granted to counsel to submit further briefs on the appeal. The hearing of the Kennedy murder case from this city was postponed until the October term. Friday's batch of decisions comprised ten affirmances, three reversals and four appeal teen affirmances, six reversals and one appeal dismissed. The Court of Appeals has reached No. 577 on the regular call of its calendar, which when made up on April 17, 1899, comprised 800 cases. These do not include appeals from orders many of which are added to the calendar from time to time. Appeals in criminal cases are also placed on the calendar as they are ready for argument. An important question relating to the ownership and control of the seashore on the eas end of Long Island has been finally settled by the decision of the Court of Appeals which was handed down on Tuesday in the case of the trustees of the Freeholders and Commonalty of the Town of Southampton against Frederick H. Betts and St. Andrew's Dune Church. The controversy grew out of the conflicting claims of two sets of public trustees the trustees of the town and the trustees of the original individual proprietors of the common undivided lands in Southampton. By an act passed in 1818, the Legislature gave the common lands and the trustees of the town control over the lands under water. Mr. Betts and St. Andrew's Church bought from the trustees of the proprietors the lands which they occupy between the ocean and the road on the southerly margin of the town pond. The trustees of the town insisted that the trustees of the proprietors had no right to sell these lands, inasmuch as by the act of 1818 they were excepted from the common lands committed to the care of the trustees for the pro prietors. This view, however, has been reected by all the courts, which agree in holding that the centrol of the beach lands passed to the trustees of the proprietors. The title of the defendants is therefore upheld. They were represented in the litigation by Elihu Root, while James C. Carter was counsel for the trustees of the town. Both lawyers are summer residents of Southampton, Secretary Root in the village and Mr. Carter at Good

The Constitution of the State of New York prohibits leases of agricultural lands for a longer period than twelve years. "No lease or grant of agricultural land for a longer period than twelve years, bereafter made, in which shall be reserved any rent or service of any kind, shall be valid." This provision was contained in the Constitution of 1846 and is continued in the Revised Constitution of 1894 Its operation has not very often been invoked in the courts, but it is the subject of careful consideration in an opinion by Judge Vann of the Court of Appeals in the recently decided case of the Massachusetts National Bank against Shinn, which went up from the Second Department. The litigation involved the lease of a tract of land in Westchester county for mining purposes for a term of twenty years. No suggestion that this lease was violative of the Constitution was made before the referee who tried the case or before the Appellate Division; but the objection was made for the first time upon the argument in the Court of Appeals. The result reached by that tribunal is expressed in this sentence from the opinio of Judge Vann: "We think that this lease does not come within the spirit of the Constitutional prohibition because the property leased was an iron mine extending for an unknown distance under agricultural lands and was to be used exclusively for mining purposes. no right under the lease to cultivate the land.

The acquittal of Howard C. Benham. upon poison, seems to have been generally expected n Ontario county, to which the venue was changed from Genesee county, after his motion for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence was granted. It will be remembered that he was convicted upon the first trial, which took place before Mr. Justice Laughlin of Buffalo, and that the conviction was affirmed by the Court of Appeals. The opinion of Judge Haight, which was nearly forty pages long, discussed the facts and th law with exceptional care, even for a capital case, and found no reason for interfering with 402.) After this affirmance the application for a new trial was made upon the allegation that new evidence in behalf of the defendant had been discovered. It came before Mr Justice Hooker, who was new to the bench and he was subjected to some local criticism for granting it: but the result is sufficient justifleation for his action, if it needed any. Hi pinion on granting the motion may be found in 30 Miscellaneous Reports at page 466. Benham alleged that he was prevented by his counsel from testifying upon the first trial and that he refused to follow the direction of his counsel in this respect until he was assured that his wife did not die of poison and that the greatest chemists in the State would so testify. The averments on this subject created the impression that the defendant would certainly take the stand in his own behalf description and he carried her to the station on the second trial and it is a remarkable cirhouse. A club litigation arising out of the actio of the house committee in discontinuing to furnish the club with a particular brand of whiskey recently came up for trial in London before Mr. Justice Lawrance and a jury in the Queen's Bench Division. In the complaint book of the Sports Club a member recommended the disuse of this whiskey "as it is dis tinctly inferior." The manufacturer of the whiskey was a client of a solicitor named Milton Bradford, one of the members of the club; and Mr. Bradford wrote to the Governing Committee that he had been instructed to bring an action for libel on account of the unfavorable mention of his client's whiskey. The club invited him to explain this threat, which he declined to do, and thereupon expelled him from membership. In a suit which Mr. Bradford brought to recover damages for his expulsion which he alleged to be unlawful, the court held that the action of the club had been taken in accordance with its rules, fairly and in apparent good faith, and Mr. Justice Lawrance directed verdict for the defendants.

The extent to which custom and usage can be proved in order to be read into a contract s the subject of careful consideration in a recent Indiana case. An agreement for the delivery of paper contained this clause Weight to be on basis of 37x48, 53 pounds 500 sheets." The Appellate Court holds that it is competent to show, by proof of a usage in the trade, that such an order means to include, in the specific weight, the weight of such wrappings as are necessary for the safe transportation of the paper to its destination. A New York case is cited in which a plasterer had contracted to do plastering for so much a square yard and was allowed to prove a custom to measure such work without any de tom to measure such work without any de-duction for carnices, base boards, or openings for doors and windows. English and American Buyers Said to Have Formed Combinations to Hold Off Until a Low Rate is Reached-Better Feeling of Cubane Toward the Spaniards in Havana Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

HAVANA, June 23.-Complaints are being made the country newspapers, especially those in the tobacco districts, that prices have fallen very low. In some places little work is to be had owing to the fact that the crops which are being sold are sent to one centre and there

Generally speaking, however, there is very little money in circulation in the tobacco districts. Secretary of Agriculture Lacoste says the trouble is due to the fact that the buyers have formed two large trusts, one English and the other American. These syndicates are holding back until the prices fall. Formerly exporters of the leaf used to bid against the local manufacturers. Senor Segrario, the Spanish Consul-General, asked the Mayor of Havana to-day to permit the Spanish band to play in public places. The Consul s ated that the reasons given for the former prohibition did not exist any longer. The Mayor granted the request. Of late there has not been much, if any, openly expressed hostility on the part of the Cubans toward the Spaniards. One possible reason for this is that the Spaniard remained in the tackground during the recent elections. Con-ul-General Segrario says this action was taken for the purpose of harmonizing the relations of the two races. This is the second request of this kind that Senor Segrario has made within the last month It is understood that an American infantry regiment will shortly leave the island for home. The older members soout the idea of changing a custom that has so long been observed. They have voted to stand by their venerable pastor.

The younger members have broken away, and to-day will hold services in the Union Chapel on Broadway. They have engaged the Rev. Eugene Zwinger of the Hempstead Lutheran Church to officiate for them. The old church was never incorporated, although holding property, and the younger members now propose to have the society incorporated and get possession of the proferty and become attached to the German Lutheran Church Society of America. The church is free from debt and has been looked upon as very prosperous, but it is declared that the dissensions will destroy the church.

WHITE MAN "LOST" DOWN SOUTH Assaulted a Woman and the Men Who Captured Him Voted to Lynch Him.

NEW ORLEANS, June 28. - Mrs. Rebecc Coates, a wealthy woman living six miles from Springfield, Livingston parish, was murder d yesterday on her farm after being assaulted. The body of the woman was discovered by he grandson and the neighbors were notified Some thirty men visited the place searched the premises and discovered a white man named premises and discovered a white man named Frank Gilmore concealed in one of the outnouses. He attempted to escape but was captured. He made a feeble defence saying that he had come to the house to see Mrs. Coates about some ploughing. An examination of the clothing of Gilmore left no doubt of the man's quilt and the men who had captured him voted to lynch him off in the woods.

No news has been received from them since, but it is believed that he was lynched. Gilmore was a man of good family, but a blac's sheep. He lived in a cabin by himself and was shunned by both white and black.

Coney Island. Reardon, it is alleged, got several bank checks of the Kings County hank and after filling one of them out for $100, signed Frischman's name to it. Smith is accused of being a confederate of Reardon, and it is said that he was to have half the money if he succeeded in getting the check cashed. Reardon was seen acting in a suspicious manner about Frischman's stables at midnight on Friday, and when he was arrested and searched at the West Eighth street station the check, together with a number of blank checks on different banks, was found in his possession. Smith went to court in behalf of Reardon and his arrest followed. Both pleaded not guilty and were held for further examination.

A Member of the State Board Says There's

Mrs. Catherine Benjamin of Orange applied to the New Jersey State Board of Taxation at its meeting in Jersey City yesterday for a reduction of the assessment made by the local assessors on her property. The property coneists of the paraphernalia of a photograph gallery and is assessed at $1,000. Mrs. Benjamin asked that the assessment be reduced to $350. City Attorney Thomas Davis, representing the assessors, declared that the property was worth more than it was assessed for. He said that there were a number of valuable paintings in the gallery. Mrs. Benjamin's son explained that the paintings were portraits on glass, and that their only value was for show.

"What are they?" asked Major Carl Lentz, a member of the board, "Are they portraits of member of the board, "Are they portraits of prominent citizens of Orange?"

"They are," replied Mr. B-njamin.

"What could you sell them for?"

"I doubt if we could sell them at all."

Mr. Benjamin explained that his mother did not complain of the assessment when she was living in Orange because she had a painting of a family groun by Miss Spencer for which his father paid $600, but that that had been taken to Philadelpi is.

"This is an outrage!" exclaimed Major Lentz.

"Things have come to a pretty pass when the city of Orange taxes family portraits. That painting may be of great value to the family, but who else would give $600 for it? If you had my picture do you suppose it would bring a single cent if put up at auction?

"Let me ell you, Mr. Davis, that I have been looking into the personal tax assessments in Orance and have found out much that is surprising. Outside of the corporation-you levy fracticalle to assessments. You single out a poor man I ke Mr. Benjamin and assess him $1,000 for a few photographs. and you levy no assessment at all on a wealthy citizen why has a coliec ion of paintings valued at $135.000 I can count up at least twenty-five men in Orange, each of whom is worth $100,000, who pay no personal taxes at all. I will see that justice is oone to Mr. Benjamin."

PARMERS TO HIRE A DETECTIVE.

Residents of a Packwoods District Near Wilkes Barre to Try to Run Down Thieves. WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 23 .- A massmeeting of the farmers along Kitchen's Creek in Fairmount Township, this county, will be held on Monday to raise $500 to be used in hiring a detective to get evidence against the four masked men who tortured and robbed aged Edward Moore and his wife there a week ago. The old people are just recovering from the assault. The gang is supposed to be composed of a number of men who have been terrorizing the neighborhood for several months.

Last Wednesday night the Unitsville Post Office was raided, and though the robbers got only a few stamps, they carried off a lot of provisions from the store. Some of the farmers have missed sheep lately, and this gives foundation to the opinion that the gang is well hidden somewhere in the woods waiting for the excitement to die out. The district is twelve miles from the nearest railroad and in a wild and desolate region. Edward Moore and his wife there a week ago.

NEW JOURNEAY & BURNHAM CO. Plan of Reorganizing the Brooklyn Dry

The dry goods firm of Journeay & Burnham, one of the oldest business establishments in Brooklyn, is going to be reorganized under the direction of a committee composed of Hugh Boyd, Ethan Allen Doty J. L. Russell Royal C.Peabody and Frank Harvey Field. The present company was organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey. The new one will be organized under the laws of this State and will be capitalized at $500,000, $100,000 of which is to remain in the treasury until such time as it can be disposed of at par value and the proceeds used in extending the business. The new stock is to be divided into $60,000 shares of $10 each. Each stockholder holding one share of the present stock worth $100 is to receive in exchange six shares of stock in the new concern and in addition is to share in cumulative dividends. The present common stock is to be exchanged share for share. The new plan will be placed in operation when the assent of three-fourths of the stockholders is obtained. The Reorganization Committee is confident that the new company will pay a dividend of 6 per cent. C.Peabody and Frank Harvey Field. The present

HAS VAN WYCK [GUS] SOLD OUT? Anti-Trest Drummers Rally Around Him One More.

The Commercial Travellers and Hotelmen League has again reprinted what is called by some, "Gus Van Wyck's great anti-trust speech." with this note at the beginning: "Why a man should be held responsible for the action of his brother is beyond all com-the action of his brother is beyond all com-prehension, except that of yellow journalism. We want to most explicitly say that the Hon. Augustus Van Wyck has no more use for the los Trust than he has for hell fire. He was the first man to raise the issue on the question of trusts, and he believes now everything that he said on one great occasion."

The league used to boom Brother Gus for President. Now it is for Bryan. Where it got its information that Augustus Van Wyck had its information that Augustus Van Wyck had no more use for the Ice Trust, on which, accord-ing to the stock book, he has held several thou-sand shares, is not stated.

Pilgrims for Rome and Lourdes.

Thirty-six Catholic pligrims, who are going finally to Rome and Lourdes, sailed yesterday for Queenstown aboard the Cunard steamship Servia. Among the party are five priests from Connecticut, Kansas and Prince Edward Island. Connecticut, Kansas and Prince Edward Island. The pilgrims will visit the Lakes of Killarney, Blarney Castle and other places of interest in Ireland. They will then go to London and later make a tour of the Continent. They will be at Rome on July 20, where they will meet other pilgrims who will sail from this port on July 4 aboard the Italian line steamship Archimede, and on July 7 aboard the North GermanLloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II. The pilgrimages are under the direction of the Rev. E. H. Porcile, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes in Brooklyn.
